Fennemore Craig Adds New Director for Natural Resources, Endangered Species, Construction and Utility Law

PHOENIX Aug. 8, 2006 — Fennemore Craig announces today the addition of Todd C. Wiley as director of the firm. Mr. Wiley joins the firm to serve clients in natural resources and endangered species litigation, utilities law and construction law.

Prior to joining Fennemore Craig, Mr. Wiley served as a shareholder in the firm Gallagher & Kennedy in Phoenix.

Mr. Wiley earned his J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law and his bachelor of science degree, Magna Cum Laude, in political science and philosophy from the University of Wisconsin. He is a member of the Arizona State Bar Construction Litigation, Business and Administrative Law Sections, as well as the Arizona State Bar Trial Practice Section.

Fennemore Craig is a full service law firm with more than 160 attorneys. Founded more than a century ago, Fennemore Craig is one of the Southwest's oldest and largest firms. It has offices in Phoenix, Tucson and Nogales, Arizona, and has an office opening in Las Vegas, Nevada on September 1, 2006.
