Fennemore Craig announces expansion of Intellectual Property practice with addition of Denver office

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 14, 2006 — Fennemore Craig is expanding its Intellectual Property practice with the opening of an office in Denver, Colo. Attorneys Bruce Dahl and Sue Chetlin, formerly of Dahl & Chetlin, LLC, are both practitioners in the area of Intellectual Property and have joined Fennemore Craig as directors in the Denver office.

“We extend a warm welcome to Bruce Dahl and Sue Chetlin to the firm as we build our Intellectual Property practice and join the Denver community,” said Tim Berg, Fennemore Craig managing partner. “We look forward to building this office, recognizing that Denver is a key economic hub in the West and many of our clients already have operations in Colorado.”

“Sue and I decided to join Fennemore Craig in light of its commitment to both the West and the technology, manufacturing, and natural resources-based businesses we serve,” said Dahl, who will serve as the managing partner for the Denver office.

Dahl and Chetlin are longtime Denver attorneys with extensive experience in intellectual property and business law. They provide counsel in the areas of patent, trademark, licensing, copyright, and patent litigation, and serve clients in the technology, optics, chemical, nuclear, mining, and engineering sectors.

Dahl is an experienced patent, trademark and technology attorney. He founded the firm Dahl Osterloth in Denver in 1999 and previously was a patent attorney with the Colorado firms of Klass, Law, O'Meara & Malkin, P.C. and Chrisman, Bynum & Johnson, P.C.. He also has engineering experience in the areas of aerodynamics, aero-heating, and computer modeling of ballistic re-entry vehicles. Dahl graduated from the University of Denver Law School in 1988 and holds a bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering from the University of Colorado in Boulder.

Chetlin has extensive experience intellectual property matters, as well as natural resources and mining matters. She previously worked in the law departments of Cyprus Amax Minerals Company and Mapco Coal, Inc.. She also did mine safety and mining litigation for Crowell & Moring, a Washington, D.C. law firm and clerked for the Chief Justice of the Delaware Supreme Court. Chetlin is a 1984 graduate of the University of Virginia School of Law. She earned her bachelor's degree in 1979 from Princeton University and has technical experience in chemistry.

Fennemore Craig is a full service law firm for business with more than 160 attorneys. Founded more than a century ago, Fennemore Craig is one of the Southwest's oldest and largest firms. It has offices in Phoenix, Tucson and Nogales, Ariz., Las Vegas, Nev., and Denver, Colo. For more information, visit www.fennemorecraig.com.
