Fennemore Craig Announces Phoenix Office Managing Partner

PHOENIX, AZ – Fennemore Craig, a leading law firm in the Mountain West, has named Phillip Fargotstein as the Phoenix office managing partner.

“Phil’s decades of legal experience, proven leadership and dedication to the firm make him a natural choice to manage Fennemore Craig’s largest office,” said James Goodnow, Fennemore Craig’s president and managing partner. “Phil at the helm of the Phoenix office enables the Management Committee and myself to dedicate more time to the business strategy of the firm. We know Phil will help our whole team thrive in this new role.”

“Being named the new managing partner of the Phoenix office is a great opportunity to help advance our firm’s purpose and mission,” said Phil Fargotstein. “Fennemore Craig has exceptionally talented attorneys and staff. I’ll be focused on how we can go above and beyond to help the firm and our clients navigate today’s complex and ever-changing legal landscape.”

A retired Marine Corp colonel, Fargotstein counsels a variety of clients – including large electricity generating facilities, cement manufacturers, smelters, mines and manufacturing facilities – in almost every aspect of environmental law and represents industrial clients on transactions and permitting, environmental air quality compliance and enforcement issues and appeals. He also advises clients on climate change issues and federal regulatory programs that address climate change. Fargotstein earned his J.D. from Harvard Law School and is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy.
